

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A longitudinal folding device for paper webs includes at least two hopper flanks. A paper deflection device encompasses the hopper flanks in a shell-like manner. The paper deflection device is supported by a machine frame and is electrically insulated from the machine frame. The paper deflection device may be connected to one or more vibrators or beaters.